Nikita Attempts New Twist

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Khrushchev is like a watchmaker overdoing a dance. He has excellent timing but too much twist.

The latest twist is in the report of his newest proposal: an 18-nation summit meeting on disarmament next month.

He'd probably be more surprised than anyone if President Kennedy accepted. But, from his view, this is a good time to suggest it.

That's because he can handle foreign affairs like a TV Western where everyone is either a good guy or a bad one. Sometimes he acts like a bad guy. Then he tries to make up for it.

Dona Good Guy's Hat

He was very much the bad guy outside Russia last September when he suddenly resumed nuclear testing. He got bad notices around the world and has been playing nice most of the time since.

Over the weekend he put on the good guy's hat again by releasing the American spy, U2 flier Francis Gary Powers. Moscow did not announce it was just swapping him for a Soviet spy caught here, Col. Rudolf Abel.

Abel, jailed here since 1957, was under 30-year sentence. Powers, brought down over Russia May 1, 1960, got 10 years.

Abel's Spy Days End

Neither man, after the initial publicizing in each case, was worth anything to the country holding him. The U2 flights are ended and Abel is washed up as a spy. But Khrushchev got worldwide publicity out of it and doubled his good guy bet by proposing his summit meeting, knowing beforehand that Kennedy, having taken the position there should be no summit meeting unless the two sides show more evidence of agreeing than they have so far, would almost certainly say no.

If Kennedy should then resume nuclear testing, unless he feels Khrushchev has now maneuvered him into a bad spot for resuming, the Russian can hope some of the bad public reaction would rub off on the President.

Watch Krush's Twist

All of this goes to show the Khrushchev twist, which has been something to watch.

All the disarmament talks since World War II have gotten nowhere—as have talks on nuclear testing between the United States, Britain and Russia. They began negotiations on testing 39 months ago in Geneva. From then until last September no one tested.

Kennedy was under pressure from some of his advisers, since the talks accomplished nothing, to resume testing. He did not. But Khrushchev was practicing one of his twists. The Russians for months had been secretly preparing to test.

Khrushchev then tried something he knew the West wouldn't buy at all. He said if he agreed to an inspection system, the West must agree to letting Russia have a veto. In other words: no inspection.

Not Just Test Ban

After Russia resumed testing, the United States and Britain called on him to agree to a non-inspected test ban. The answer: no. He said the main thing is general disarmament, not just a test ban.

After the Russian tests last fall, the three powers resumed their test ban talks. Now the West offered to go along with Khrushchev and let the test ban talks become part of general disarmament.

Khrushchev twisted again. Now he said he didn't want the test ban talks thrown in with the disarmament talks, even though that is what he had said he wanted and an 18-nation disarmament session had been arranged for March 14 in Geneva.

JKF Pressure Grows

The United States and Britain then broke off the test ban talks Jan. 29. Pressure at home on Kennedy to resume testing increased. Last week he seemed on the verge of a go-ahead.

Then, hoping for something to come out of the disarmament talks next month, the President suggested to Khrushchev that the foreign ministers of the 18 nations, not just their specialists, should do the negotiating.

Now Khrushchev, doubling his bet on the publicity he got from releasing Powers, practically called the foreign ministers nobodies and suggests that only the top men meeting at the summit can do anything.

Wagner Opposes Shelter Repeal

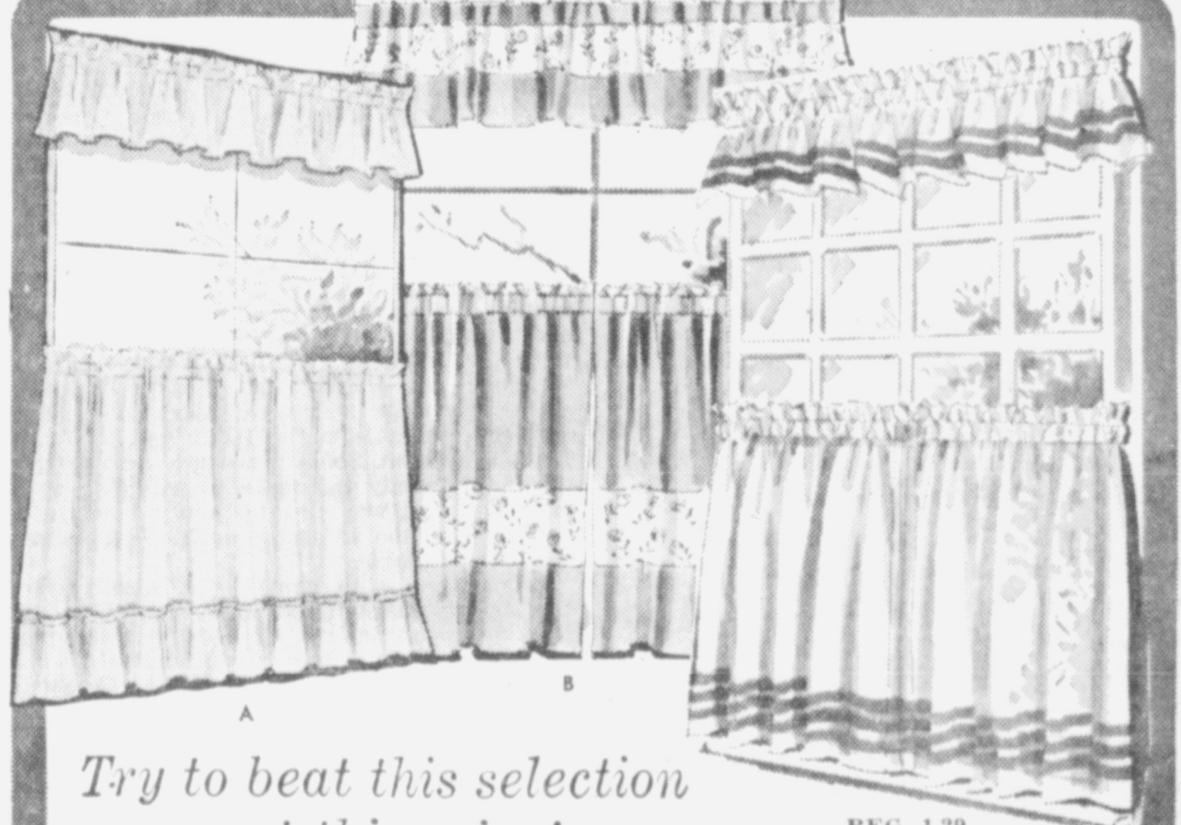

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner says he is against repeal of Gov. Rockefeller's controversial fallout shelter law unless a well-rounded proposal is prepared to replace it.

"Before we move for a real repeal of the bill we must have our own concrete program ready, especially here in the city," Wagner said on a television program

Sunday.

"Gov. Rockefeller's bill, in my view, is not a good bill because it would divert for use to build fallout shelters large sums that should be made available for other purposes, such as more aid to education here and throughout the state."

Congress Slates Routine Session In Week's Recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress shunts aside most of its legislative business this week to give its Republican members a chance to go home and mend their political fences while eulogizing Abraham Lincoln.

"No business" was the order of the week in both the Senate and the House, although several committees on both sides of the Capitol planned to hold hearings. Routine floor sessions were scheduled for Monday and Thursday in both chambers.

Several controversial proposals are ready for tests when Congress returns to work next Monday. One of them is President Kennedy's reorganization plan to create a Cabinet-status department of urban affairs and housing headed by Robert C. Weaver, a Negro. The plan becomes effective at the end of March unless either the Senate or the House rejects it.

Also ready for House debate are bills to increase the national debt limit and to provide for a program of manpower retraining for displaced workers. With the debt nearing the current $298 billion limit, the House Ways and Means Committee last week approved an administration request for a $2 billion increase in the ceiling to $300 billion.

Bottled up in the House Rules Committee until after the recess, and perhaps much longer, is a school-aid bill passed by both the Senate and the House. The House voted funds, only for college classroom construction. The Senate broadened the measure to include student scholarships and funds to help establish junior colleges.

Oldest wooden house still standing in the U.S. is the Fairbanks House, built in 1636, at Dedham, Mass.

A meeting to mobilize support for a forthcoming bond issue for the Onteora Central Schools District has been scheduled for Monday, Feb. 26, at 8 p. m. at the central school auditorium in Boiceville.

Several committees will be appointed from volunteers to conduct the next finance campaign in the district. The administration and the Board of Education of the Onteora district feel that the successful promotion of a bond issue is dependent upon the extent to which interested district citizens involve themselves in local efforts prior to the next public referendum.

The three principal committees to be organized on Feb. 26 will include publicity, organization, and finance.

The publicity committee will handle such details as taking charge of news releases, create materials which can be distributed by area workers, prepare posters, door knob signs, etc., mimeograph printed material, conduct a poster contest, work with the school newspaper for special editions, provide book marks for distribution at the libraries.

The organization committee will conduct a drive to register new voters and publish lists of registered voters; secure endorsements from organizations, business firms and prominent citizens; organize a house to house canvas of all voters; organize phone committees and poll watching committees for elevation day; secure speakers and arrange speaking engagements; use a sound truck with taped script on days preceding elevation and on election day.

The finance committee will arrange for securing funds to finance the bond drive. District officials and the Board of Education are hoping for the largest possible attendance at the meeting.

Teacher Grants Program Set Up By State P-TA

The New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers has set up a fund for "PTA Teacher Fellowships" to provide a grant program for teachers in the public schools of the state, Mrs. Anne Larys of Woodstock announced. Mrs. Larys is the district director for the Central Hudson District.

The fellowships in the amount of $500 may be used at any accredited college for approved post-graduate study. No individual will be entitled to receive a grant more than three times and no more than one fellowship will be granted to the faculty of any school. The winners, to be selected on a competitive basis, will be screened by a statewide committee composed of educators and lay members.

The Student Loan Fund, which the State Congress of Parents and Teachers had maintained since 1925, has been terminated and its balance transferred into a fund for the new teacher fellowships.

The PTA committee administering the student fund reported that it "had long filled a need which, it had become evident, is now being met by other and newer resources." Increasing numbers of requests for aid for graduate study were received, which led to the decision to offer the grant program to teachers.

The announcement of the first winners of the fellowships will be made March 1, Mrs. Larys said.

Youth Is Accused Of Shooting Kin

WILSON, N.Y. (AP) — Richard Sebring, 20, was in jail today, accused of firing a shotgun at his mother after she kidded him about a broken romance.

Police said Sebring held a dozen officers at bay in front of the Sebring home Sunday for two hours. When police finally broke in, they found the youth asleep on a bed with the shotgun next to him.

The shooting started, police said, when Richard's mother, Mrs. Louise Sebring, showed some friends a snapshot of a girl who had jilted her son. Authorities said the enraged youth ran from the room, came back with the shotgun and fired twice at his mother. Both shots missed.

The mother and a younger brother and sister fled the house along with the friends. Another brother, Burton, 18, returned

Committees Will Study Stockpile, Other Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government's excess board of strategic materials will have to be sold slowly—perhaps over 10 years—to avoid a stunning shock to the economy, say senators who have scanned secret reports.

The question of disposal likely will be one of the major problems of a Senate subcommittee preparing to act on President Kennedy's order for an inquiry into stockpiling.

And the stockpile's two giants—aluminum and rubber—probably will get most of the attention.

Informed senators noted that a decision made in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration—and concurred in currently by Kennedy—to cut the strategic requirement from a five-year supply to a three-year one contributes to the excesses.

The more than two million tons of aluminum and million tons of rubber presumably could be sold for a profit at present prices, providing a way would be worked out for gradual disposal.

If such heavy amounts of aluminum and rubber were thrown on the market in a relatively short time, it probably would drive down prices. This would hold true for other stockpile materials. A quick sale also might choke industries which supply the materials.

The amount the government spent for all raw materials—including some not regarded as strategic—was fixed by senators at more than $9 billion.

Jurors Convict Upstate Man in Bathtub Slaying

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—Burton C. Graham, accused of drowning his estranged wife in a bathtub last August, was convicted of second-degree murder by a State Supreme Court jury.

The jury deliberated 13 hours before returning the verdict Saturday.

Graham testified during the 14-day trial that he went to the home of his wife, put her in the bathtub, turned the water on to revive her, and left.

Police said Graham had intended to drown her by holding her head under water.

The couple had argued over their three children, police said, but no motive was brought out during the trial. Graham had been indicted on a first-degree murder charge.

Vols Battle Fire, Weather Sunday, Cementon Plant

Fire of undetermined origin which started in the furnace room early Sunday morning, did heavy damage to the mushroom plant of Frank Mucci in Cementon, Greene County, as volunteers battled in sub-zero weather to save the buildings.

Firefighters from Hose One in Catskill found the heating plant a mass of flames and quickly called for help from Malden-West Camp Fire Company which sent two trucks and a tanker to the scene. The blaze spread rapidly through one concrete block building, filled with trays of mushrooms and into a second building, before the fire was brought under control.

The firefighters were hampered by freezing hose lines and freezing equipment. One of the Malden-West Camp pumpers and a tanker had to return to the firehouse where they were thawed out by water from the home of Company President John J. Helfert who lives nearby. They then went to the creek in Malden but when they couldn't obtain water there they went to a quarry on the Alpha Cement property in Cementon where they had to chop holes in foot-thick ice to get water to refill the trucks.

The mushroom plant is located well back from Route 9W on the west side of the highway near the Alsen underpass. The two mushroom houses were filled with plants and the owner said that the amount of damage could not be estimated immediately. The loss to the heating plant, where the blaze started, was estimated at $3,000 by Catskill fire officials.

The first alarm was sounded about 6 a.m. and the Malden-West Camp apparatus was summoned at 6:30 a.m. The fire was out shortly after 9:30 a.m. Equipment from Saugeerties stood by to protect the Malden-West Camp district during the blaze.

9 Plane Victims, Wreckage Found By Search Party

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—

Searchers today found the burned and scattered wreckage of a Vietnamese military C47 transport plane that apparently carried 10 men—eight Americans and two Vietnamese—to death on a leaflet dropping mission Sunday.

Bodies of nine men were found with the wreckage in a mountainous area 80 miles northeast of Saigon. Rescue teams assumed the 10th also perished, despite a report that parachutes had been seen in the area.

All the Americans aboard were personnel of U.S. Army and Air Force. At least one was assigned to to psychological warfare work in South Viet Nam.

Names were withheld.

It could not be determined immediately whether the two-engine plane had crashed or been shot down by Communist Viet Cong rebels operating in the area.

The leaflets being dropped carried the text of President Ngo

Dinh Diem's lunar New Year message to the nation, which reviewed accomplishments of his government in the past year.

The plane had been flying from Saigon to the coastal town of Da Nang.

It was the fourth crash in recent weeks of military aircraft carrying Americans. Previous plane casualties were two helicopters destroyed in mopup operations against the Viet Cong and a twin-engine transport which crashed Feb. 2 while making a destruction dry run. Detonation planes spray thickly foliage areas along roads and railroad tracks to destroy the cover used by the Viet Cong for ambushes.

City Man Accused In Check Inquiry

The sheriff's department and Kingston Police Department today made the fifth in a series of arrests in connection with the passing of fraudulent checks at a Port Ewen Market.

The latest arrest was that of

Pat Andrews, 35, of 44 Derren-bacher Street, accused of passing a check for $30. He pleaded guilty to passing a fraudulent

check before Justice of Peace

Allan S. Dargie of Esopus and was given 30 days in the county jail. Sentence was suspended and Andrews was placed on probation for three years after making restitution.

Four persons received similar sentences Thursday on charges of passing checks for unspecified amounts at Pantry Market. The quartet, picked up by County Investigator Arthur Brown of the Sheriff's office and Detective

Wilmot Hall of the Kingston

Police Department, included:

William Constable, 47, and his wife, Clara, 46, of 168 Downs

Street; Mary Irons, 25, of 74

Franklin Street, all of Kingston and Mrs. Joan Coleman, 25, of West Hurley.

Fine For a Festive February

February is a month of loving holidays. We pause to honor Honest Abe, do our loving best for the family on Valentine's Day, and round out the month with honors to George Washington, whose heart was big enough to win him the accolade, Father of Our Country.

Colorful, luscious red water-packed cherries are featured in four brand new taste treats you'll want to serve for festive February meals. This rich red fruit offers both a color lift to midwinter meals and a tartness the palate longs for on cold blustery days.

Valentine's Day offers the homemaker a chance to give those she loves something very special . . . a gift she alone can provide. Anybody can go out and buy a Valentine. But only loving homemakers can serve a delectable meal — better than any store-bought treat.

Jewel-toned cherries make Valentine's Day a time to remember. The antique mold we used for Valentine Cherry Mold just happened to have a little heart-shaped pattern. You can copy the idea by pouring plain cherry gelatin mixture into a shallow pan to chill. Then, at serving time, cut heart-shaped pieces with a cookie cutter and place them atop a plain ring mold.

Sweetheart Cherry Cake, with its topping of cherries in a simple glaze, will glow like a handful of rubies in a jeweler's showcase.

Serve these festive treats for a memorable Valentine's Day dinner, and sit back to enjoy the warmth of love and appreciation from your family.

And here's something new under the February sun — a tasty fruit and vegetable sauce for roast meats. Cherries are the star attraction, with a supporting cast of raisins, apples and celery. Served hot over a loin roast of pork, it's a taste sensation guaranteed to pep up jaded winter appetites!

George Washington and the cherry tree story are well known. Perhaps less well known is the fact that Washington was at least partially responsible for introducing fruit pies into the American diet. Until the Revolution, Americans ate only meat "pies." When the larder ran low during the war, the General's cook began to serve fruit pies to stretch out their meager meat supplies. Washington approved, and thus a new American food was created.

We're not sure who it was ordered the first piece of pie à la mode. But we feel certain your family will find our 1962 Washington Cherry Pie an exciting new treat. The surprise here is that the ice cream is beneath the cherry topping.

Don't tell a soul . . . just watch the surprised and happy looks as you cut and serve this delectable new pie to those you love.

Two of February's gay holidays offer good reason for party meals. The richness of red, water-packed cherries enhances both the main course and dessert for Valentine's Day and Washington's Birthday dinners. The tangy taste and brilliant color of this popular fruit gives a special lift to February festivities.

It is fitting that we honor our great Civil War President on the anniversary of his birth. For now is a time when, in many parts of the world, men are responding to the splendid ideal of Democracy, the maintenance of which Abraham Lincoln helped to preserve for us and our posterity. His memory will always be fresh wherever men love Freedom!

CLINTON, N.Y. (AP) — Richard W. Couper of Binghamton, son of the chancellor of the University of the State of New York, will take office July 1 as administrative vice president of Hamilton College.

Robert W. McEwan, president of the college, said the younger Couper would succeed William V. Daugherty of Clinton, who is resigning as the college's business manager to become executive director of the New York State Job Development Authority.

Couper, 39, is an insurance executive and the son of Chancellor Edgar W. Couper.

"I suppose in a formal way I am not supposed to lend my authority to any news story, no matter how many may happen to do with classification."

Price's charges, Bethe said:

"I am not supposed to lend my authority to any news story, no matter how many may have printed it."

Price, in making the charges, said "I don't want to indicate in any way that I am being critical of Bethe, who is one of the world's great scientists. This could happen to anyone."

MECHANICVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — A broken rail and a burned-out journal box apparently were the causes of two derailments within 25 minutes on the Delaware & Hudson Railroad.

Four empty freight cars broke loose from the middle of a 90-car freight train near Gansevoort,

Saratoga County, and plunged down a 35-foot embankment.

A railroad spokesman said the derailment Sunday apparently was caused by a burned-out journal

box. The train was bound from Oneonta to Whitehall.

At Waterford, two cars of a 90-car freight jumped the tracks, apparently because of a broken rail.

The train was traveling from Albany to Binghamton.

Broken Rail Causes Sunday Derailments

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A state legislator was prepared today for strong objections from manufacturers to his bill that would require motor vehicle seat belts sold in New York State to withstand 5,000 pounds pressure.

Sen. Edward J. Speno, R-Nassau, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Vehicles and Traffic Safety, noted that the Society of Automotive

Engineers had set a standard of 4,000 pounds for the belts.

He said he expected to hear the manufacturers' objections at a meeting today to discuss his bill, which would require the State

Health Department to test belts and certify them for sale in the state.

Milk Hauler Will Purchase Plates For His Trucks

HERKIMER, N.Y. (AP) — A

New York State milk hauler, whose drivers were arrested in a

State Police drive against the use of out-of-state registration plates, has agreed to purchase $30,000 worth of New York State registration plates by March 19.

An attorney for McBride Transport Inc. of Goshen, produced

New York registrations Saturday for seven trailers, the drivers of which were arrested on the Thru-way at various times and places and charged with driving unregistered vehicles. The drivers were hauling trailers bearing Vermont plates, troopers said.

Peace Justice George Luther of nearby Schuyler adjourned the cases to March 12.

The attorney said the company would purchase New York registrations for the other 35 company trailers.

State Police say New York plates for the trailers cost an average of $291 each, while Vermont registrations cost $16.

Freed Prisoner Assumes He Was Bonus in Swap

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—There is an opportunity to make a lot of cheap propaganda slamming East Germany—don't do it in my case," said Frederic L. Pryor, 28, Sunday on his return home after his release from a Soviet prison.

"After tomorrow, forget me," he said.

His graying mother, Mrs. Millard H. Pryor, beamed, "This is what I have been waiting for." She had been waiting five and a half months.

The scene was nearby Willow Run Airport with a New York-Detroit airliner a backdrop. Less than 48 hours earlier Frederic had been released by East German Communists who had picked him up as an espionage suspect in East Berlin last Aug. 25. His mother and father, who learned of his detention three weeks afterward, had spent most of their time since in Berlin.

Frederic said he "assumed I was just a bonus in the deal" in which American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers was swapped for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel early Saturday morning.

The lean, tallish Frederic told newsmen he was "happy, grateful to be home." He said he had not been physically mistreated by the Communists.

Pryor had taken with him a copy of a doctoral thesis he was writing on East European Communist trade. It contained facts and figures gathered from many sources, but Pryor insisted none of them were of a military nature.

Pryor described the unofficial charge against him as "economic espionage," but said he never was shown any official warrant or indictment.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Take the product of a song-writing team which has turned out such hits as "My Fair Lady," "Gigi" and "Brigadoon." Cast their finest moments with talent like Julie Andrews and Maurice Chevalier. Let a director of taste and imagination pull it all together.

The result is a joy and a delight. And that is just what Sunday night's, "The Broadway of Lerner and Loewe," proved to be during an all-too-short hour on NBC.

Although the program was built around Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, the composers appeared only briefly—and never once got into the dull dreary trap of "And then we wrote." Although Maurice Chevalier did sing his famous "Thank Heaven for a benign smile, called it "debutantism," and carefully explained it started centuries back when wealthy families announced their daughters had become young adults or, to put it bluntly, were associated with men.

Chevalier—who was just wonder—took on "I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face." Richard Burton half-talked "Gigi" and Miss Andrews sang "With a Little Bit of Luck," originally Holloman bow.

There were amusing sketches, short memorable scenes in wonderful color. Altogether it was a bright, warm and beautiful show.

NBC had a second bull's-eye—on Friday evening—with a light-hearted, documentary called "Debutante '62." It was a sly look at an expensive, fatiguing, frenetic preoccupation of the social launching.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, with a benign smile, called it "debutante tonight: "87th Precinct," NBC, 9-10 EST)—after a rough start, has settled into an interesting, often amusing, cops-and-robbers series, which program.

Band Concert Is Scheduled Sunday At West Point

The U.S. Military Academy Band will present the second of its 1962 winter concerts Sunday afternoon, February 18, at 3:30 p. m. in the West Point Army Theatre. The program, conducted by Major William H. Schempf, will feature a new arrangement of Hector Berlioz's overture "Le Corsaire," to be performed for the first time, and Percy Grainger's arrangement of Cesare Franck's "Organ Choral No. 2." The concert is open to the public free of charge.

Concluding the first part of the program will be Richard Strauss' tone poem, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," based on the exploits of the roguish Till of German legend.

The second half of the program will be devoted largely to "Pictures at an Exhibition," one of Modeste Mussorgsky's most brilliant instrumental compositions. In its original form as a piano suite, this selection enjoyed only mild success; when it was transcribed for orchestra and band, it became well-known.

The concert also will include the performance of the "George Washington Bicentennial March" and the "National Defense March."

Child Study Club Endorses Adding Fluorine to Water

The Home and Child Study Club held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, Feb. 7, at the home of Mrs. Robert Winrow.

Mrs. Robert Hogan led a discussion on fluoridation. She said that adding approximately one part per million of fluorine to the water is by far the safest, cheapest and most effective way of protecting children's teeth from decay. The famous Newburgh-Kingston survey proved this method will reduce decay of children's teeth by 56 per cent, but will have no adverse effects on their health or the health of adults. It will also greatly cut down the loss of permanent teeth.

The addition of fluorine to the water supply is the only means of offering protection to low and middle income families who cannot afford to have a dentist paint fluorine on their teeth or to purchase the fluorine pills. Mrs. Hogan went on to state that tax-payers pay for dental care for all people on welfare. This cost would be drastically reduced by the lower rate of decay created by fluorine in the water.

The club then unanimously passed a resolution in favor of fluorine in the proper solution being added to the water supply as soon as possible. The resolution also states the club feels the Water Board should review all available information from reliable studies and then act according to the recommendations offered by the Dental and Medical Associations, both of whom recommend fluoridation of all water systems.

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?

If you take vitamins, get enough rest, yet still feel tired — you may need more than ordinary vitamins to restore your normal strength and energy. Your worn-out feeling may be due to iron-poor, Tired Blood.

It is this rich source of iron, combined with high-potency vitamins, including essential B vitamins in 3 to 5 times the minimum daily requirements, that make GERITOL such an effective strength-building tonic. In only one day, GERITOL-iron is working in your bloodstream, carrying strength and energy to every part of your body!

A CHECK AS A GIFT ago at a large wedding (300 guests). I received many wedding presents and the thought of having to sit down and write all of those thank-you notes has me have so little free time—what with going to business and trying to keep house. In view of the number of presents received, would it be permissible to send printed thank-you cards?

A: I am sorry, but printed thank-you cards would not do at all. Personal notes must be written no matter how long this takes you.

The Emily Post Institute offers readers booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like the booklet entitled "The New Baby," send 10 cents in coin, to cover cost of handling, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Q:

I was married three weeks

Needless to say, we are very hurt over this and think them extremely rude for returning our gift. I would very much appreciate your opinion on this matter.

A: Although they were very understandably embarrassed by receiving a check as a gift and wished to return it, it would have been gracious of them to have considered only the spirit in which it was sent and have kept it with thanks.

Man Is Awarded Medal by Rocky

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Harlan Hoyt Horner, 50 years after saving the first draft of Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation from fire, received a medal on Lincoln's Birthday from Gov. Rockefeller.

Horner, 83, had been chosen to get the silver medallion of the State Civil War Centennial Commission.

He rushed into the burning State Capitol March 29, 1911, and rescued the historic document from a safe, the governor's office said.

Horner learned of the fire at 4 a.m. and rode to the Capitol on a street car. He and Edwin Draper, son of the then education commissioner, opened the safe and took the contents to a private home.

The east wing of the Capitol, where the safe was located, was destroyed and a large collection of historic documents was lost.

The draft of the proclamation had been bought by the state for $1,000 in 1865. It still is held by the State Education Department.

Horner retired from the department in 1939 as an associate commissioner.

Spirits for the Flu

With the sneezing season here, it's a good idea to check your spirits. But don't spend too much time looking over liquid supplies—the spirits that matter are your own. If your morale is generally good, chances are that if you get the flu, you'll get better faster than people who often have the blues.

Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine says "depression-prone" people take longer to get over flu than fellow-sufferers with higher spirits. Their

BACKACHE & NERVE TENSION

SECONDARY TO KIDNEY IRRITATION

After 35, common Kidney or Bladder Irritations often occur and may make you nervous from too frequent burning or itching urination day and night. You may have sleep and feel off-tired, depressed. In such cases, try a very simple fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritations seems in strong, acid urine and by giving a kidney pill. Get one at druggists. Cheer up and feel better fast.

So if you're not the sort of person to let things get you down, you'll probably recover fairly fast if flu hits you. But don't count on your sunny disposition to protect you.

Ask your doctor to give you flu vaccine. Especially if you have tuberculosis, emphysema or other respiratory ills, heart disease, diabetes, or other chronic illnesses. The vaccine is also important for pregnant woman and people over 65.

But with or without flu, try not to be blue!

Abraham Lincoln, Man of Sorrows

sissippi to cut the Confederacy in two.

But in the east, in the crowded, muddy, pestilence-ridden capital, the citizens still stood half in fear of invasion by the seemingly unbeatable Rebels just across the Potomac. And it was on Lincoln's tall, stooping shoulders that the hopes and fears and grief of an entire people rested.

The president's birthday was a happy one, as happy as it could be. His son Willy seemed much better. The little boy had been ailing for days. A public reception on the 5th had almost been cancelled because of it. The Lincolns went through the motions of entertaining their 500 guests, but their minds were bound to the child in bed in a room on the very quiet second floor of the White House.

We do not know today what Willy Lincoln's sickness was. Medical diagnoses of the time were often unreliable. But it was a lingering, fluctuating fever that undoubtedly etched new lines in the sad, gaunt face of Lincoln as he spent what time he could at his son's bedside.

Undoubtedly, also, his thoughts went back to that other February in 1850, twelve years before. Eleven days before his 41st birthday that year, his second-born son had died. Eddie Lincoln had been not quite four. Children's deaths were common in those days, but then as now, it was the saddest thing in the world.

Lincoln Had 4 Sons

Abraham and Mary Lincoln had four sons: Robert, Edward, William and Thomas. In 1862, 18-year-old Bob was away at Harvard. Willy was 11 and Thomas, or Tad, was 8.

The Lincolns would be considered indulgent parents at any time. According to the Victorian standards of their day, they were extremely so. Willy and Tad had the run of the White House, to the irritation and scandal of generals, congressmen, cabinet members and the numerous social climbers and office seekers who continually besieged the president.

What fun the boys had against the exciting background of the war and their father's important position. There were real soldiers to play with, parades, visits to army camps. More than one cabinet meeting was interrupted by their urgent need of their father, who was never too busy to handle such an important matter as signing a pardon for one of their animal pets who had been found guilty of treason. He seldom disciplined the boys.

Mrs. Lincoln later quoted her husband as saying, "It is my pleasure that my children are free, happy and unrestrained by parental tyranny. Love is the chain whereby to bind a child to its parents."

A Promising Boy

Of his sons, Willy was the one probably the most like his father. They thought and felt alike. He was a promising boy; he wrote poetry and wanted to be a preacher. He was serious like his older brother Robert, yet had plenty of the impishness that characterized little Tad.

Now Willy lay deathly ill, and Tad, too, had come down with something and his life was feared for.

On Feb. 20, Willy Lincoln died. He was 11 years and two months old. A people already full of mourning for its dead and dying youth felt the president's loss as their own. The little body was placed in a temporary vault in Georgetown.

His Wife's Grief

To Lincoln's anguish was added the burden of his wife's hysterical grief that bordered on the pathological, and the uncertainties that attended Tad's slow recovery.

Rest from sorrow finally came

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The bright light of curiosity always plays around the man who handles your money.

Your banker's ethics, how much he prospers personally, the manner in which he operates and the rules that bind him, even his off-hour habits, have borne a bit more scrutiny from the neighbors perhaps than have the private lives of men in many other lines of endeavor.

And now, of all places, banking and barking are getting the once-over in a musical comedy. The scene is New York of 1837 and 1857. But the audience, rightly or wrongly, seems to connect many of the farcical jibes with 1962 headlines.

The musical comedy is "The Banker's Daughter." It is a free adaptation of a melodrama, "The Streets of New York," written by Dion Boucicault, a prolific playwright of 100 years ago. The original show had a long run, thanks in part to that ageless curiosity about those who handle other people's money.

The opening scene of "The Banker's Daughter" seems like pure farce today. It is laid in 1837, a quarter of a century before the passage of the National Banking Act and 76 years before the setting up of the Federal Reserve System.

In the first scene a bank president is busy stuffing the bank's money into a valise and even putting some of it into his baby daughter's bassinet. He is in trouble and heading for Peru. His employees accept this as the thing to do.

But a sea captain arrives, turns over his life's savings for investment—and the banker doesn't want to leave. He's in business again. Instead, he shanghais the clerk who knows too much, and also the captain's money.

The audience laughs at all the shenanigans—not because it thinks for a minute that's a common practice now, but because it remembers the exceptions: Those headlines about the respectable lady embezzlers in Iowa and Virginia, and the once high flyers in the financial world who went to jail or took refuge overseas.

The play switches to 1857, but banking practices haven't changed in the 20 years. The banker has prospered. He is blackmailing his way into an exclusive club, running for governor in the accepted alliance of business and politics, and buying a society husband for his daughter, who has been snubbed by the Ladies Aid Society because her money is too new.

The banker is exposed again, although he has warded off as abhorrent the idea any one could examine his books. He is packing his valise again with the bank's money, when once more he is saved by the bell.

It's all farce, but the kind that some persons think may go on in the mysterious world of high finance.

The jibes that the audience love may be unfair to today's banking and investing system as a whole. But what the musical comedy adaptation seems to be saying—although probably it doesn't intend to prove anything—is that laws may change, but men don't.

And the musical is playing to laughing audiences in a small theater in Manhattan's East 70s, a fashionable and expensive area where many of today's bankers live.

Yugoslavia is considered to be the world's leading plum-growing country, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Piloted Teams In Three Eras In Kingston

The late Frank (Pop) Morgenweck, a towering figure in the early era of professional basketball, has been elected to the Basketball Hall of Fame at Springfield, Mass.

Known as the "Connie Mack of Basketball" Morgenweck directed three separate basketball dynasties in Kingston in 1910, 1920 and 1935. He died at Egg Harbor, N. J. in 1942 at the age of 66.

Morgenweck was among six prominent basketball figures of yesteryear named by the Honors Committee of the Hall of Fame Sunday. The date of the induction ceremonies has not been set.

The newest inductees include: Harlan (Pat) Page, University of Chicago, 1910, who helped the Maroons to the 1908 national collegiate championship; John A. (Cat) Thompson, Montana State, 1930, who tallied 1539 points in three varsity seasons; the late "Jumping Jack" McCracken, eight-time AAU All-American choice; Barney Sedran, an outstanding pro player despite his lack of size; the late Lynn St. John, who played a prominent role in uniting all groups under one playing code; and Morgenweck, who coached pro basketball for 32 years.

Area old timers will recall Sedran, who stood 5 feet 4 inches and weighed around 120 pounds. He started from 1911 to 1926, launching his career with the famous New York Whirlwinds, one of the top teams in the early pro era. He ended his career with the 1926 Cleveland Rosenblums. He also played in Newburgh, Utica, Fort Wayne, Carbondale, Pa., Philadelphia Jaspers, Bridgeport, Conn.; Scranton, Albany and others. Sedran turned to coaching in 1930 and handles such teams as the Brooklyn Jewels of the American League, the Kate Smith Celtics, Wilmington Bombers, New York Gothams and others.

Known as the "Connie Mack of Professional Basketball," Frank Morgenweck was one of basketball's most prominent figures for 32 years as a manager, promoter and coach. He earned his greatest fame with the three Kingston teams. His middle aggregation in the 1920s defeated the Original Celtics in a best of five series, with $10,000 riding on the outcome of the deciding game.

Had Many Teams

In addition to the powerful Kingston teams, Morgenweck owned or operated clubs in Philadelphia and South Farmington, Mass.; Pittsburgh, Poughkeepsie, Cohoes, Elizabeth, Paterson, Passaic, Fort Wayne, Rochester and the Chicago Bruins for George Halas, the pro football pioneer.

The list of great professional basketball players developed and signed by Morgenweck reads like a Who's Who of the sport. Perhaps his greatest star was Benny Borgmann, with Johnny Beckman of the Original Celtics and the late Carl Huston running close behind.

The remainder of the list includes such outstanding names as Maurice Tome, John Penino, George Henschel, Mickey Huston, Rusty Saunders, Nick Heyer, George Artus, the Powers brothers (Charlie and Artie); Jimmy Inglin, Harry Riconda, Gaze Chizmarida, Horace (Pip) Koehler, Frank Shimek, one of the all-time Big Ten stars; Tiny Hearn, the big Georgian, who at 6 feet 7 was one of the early giants of pro basketball.

Borgmann preceded his mentor in the Hall of Fame. The election of the six men bring the number thus far honored to 50. Through the 25 years he promoted basketball in Kingston, Morgenweck was always a home town promoter. He lived in Kingston while operating the team. His last squad in the mid-1930s played in the American League era of the colorful Philadelphia SPHAS, Jersey City Reds, Brooklyn Visitations, Brooklyn Jewels (made up entirely of the St. John's Wonder Five) and other powerhouses.

Impressive List

The other selections move into the Hall of Fame with impressive credentials. Harlan (Pat) Page starred and coached in four sports. He was at Butler University 1921 to 1925, winning the National AAU title in 1924; also at Indiana (1925-30), and Idaho U. 1937-1939. His career record showed 200 wins, 127 losses in basketball. He also assisted the University of Chicago to the national college basketball title in 1908.

John (Cat) Thompson was Rocky Mountain Conference all-star selection four years, led the team to a 36-2 record in 1928-29. He scored 629, 597, 313 in 102 games his last 3 varsity years in the era of the jump ball.

Jumping Jack McCracken, a Missouri U. product, made AAU All-America honors in 1932, 1935 (2nd team); 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940 (2nd team); 1942 and 1945. He led Denver to 1939 and 1942 AAU titles.

Lynn Wilbur St. John, who played at College of Wooster, died in 1950. He was a member of the Joint Rules Committee from 1912 to 1937. He was chairman from 1919 and rated "master in diplomacy, performed monumental task in uniting all basketball groups under one playing code." He was coach and athletic director at Wooster, Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio State until retirement in 1947.

Regulars played on the first and third quarters as the unbeaten Myron J. Michael cagers walloped Highland, 75-28, Saturday at the local gym. Coach Ronnie Cole's cagers have won five straight and are host to Saulties today.

Dan Heppner tallied 20 points during his two periods of activity. Larry Armstead added 18 and Gene Rios had 12 as the locals jumped to an early lead and were never threatened.

National LL Sets Meeting Tuesday

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

The Babe Ruth League's blast against Little League for its designs on youngsters in the 13-15 age bracket was justified.

Whether the LL's ambitions to raise its supervision a few notches would receive area support is highly improbable.

It is a matter of record that several Little Leagues in this district have trouble enough meeting their obligations without compounding them with higher age brackets.

Like business organizations, some of our Little Leagues are well run and are solvent, others just aren't. The quality of leadership is all important and in some areas it just isn't to be had.

Babe Ruth League, organized in 1951, has done a tremendous job with the 13-15 age kids in such a short time. It has gained stature with each passing year and is well qualified to handle the needs of 13-15 year olds across the nation.

Our advice to Little League is to keep their own house in order and functioning. We've seen nothing in this part of the country that would cause a mad rush to the Little League's proposed 13-15 year old program.

Stan The Man Moves Up

Stan Musial continued his assault on all-time baseball records by moving up in virtually every category during the 1961 season. In games played he passed Rabbit Maranville and Mel Ott. In 1962 he should pass Hans Wagner, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins and wind up his career second only to the great Ty Cobb. In times at bat, he moved from 6th place to 4th place and should wind up in second place behind Cobb.
